2-1-1 Provides One-Stop Resource for Emergency Preparedness and Recovery

East Hanover, NJ -- While long-term recovery efforts are well underway in New Jersey from Hurricane Sandy; and some communities have recovered completely, many in our state are still struggling to regain normalcy. NJ 2-1-1 continues to provide resources to assist those in need from the after-effects of the storm, as well as offering New Jersey residents preparedness tips for meeting the challenge of future storms that may hit the state.

NJ 2-1-1 is the free, user-friendly phone number that serves 90% of America's population, and connects some 16 million people a year to critical resources, information and services. In New Jersey, more than 210,000 people turned to 2-1-1 for help last year.

Emergency preparedness and recovery resources are available on the 2-1-1 website www.nj211.org or by calling 2-1-1.

Be Ready! September is National Preparedness Month, so take time to learn about what preparedness systems are in place in NJ and nationally at <http://nj211.org/homelandsecurity.cfm> and http://nj211.org/hurricane\_preparedness.cfm. Or consider registering with "Register Ready", a free, voluntary and confidential web-based program designed to identify the needs of people who may find it difficult to get to safety in the event of an emergency. People with access and functional needs (or caregivers on their behalf) are encouraged to register electronically, if possible, by accessing www.registerready.nj.gov.

Alternatively, they can dial 2-1-1 and call specialists can assist with the registration process. Emergency management officials view special needs registries from varying perspectives, ranging from concerns about the need for consumer expectations management to an increased sense of confidence about being able to track individuals in their communities who require specific assistance during adverse conditions. Registries can also become a focal point for building a dialogue about emergency preparedness with individuals who have access and functional needs or establishing a rapport with stakeholder groups who work with at-risk populations.

Registries are a great tool to help emergency management officials enhance services to community members, but they are not the only tool. Planning, emphasis on personal preparedness, and the engagement of stakeholder groups who work with functional needs populations are also essential tasks aimed at building a program which serves vulnerable populations.

A Hurricane Response and Recovery page and downloadable guide, which offers safety and precautionary recommendations is still available on the site. This includes information on help with food, child care subsidies, health concerns (regarding mold, lead, asbestos, or flood water clean-up), housing, unmet needs, and even emotional support for children and adults. Follows are examples of some of the content at the site.

New Jersey Rebuild provides information on all HUD CDBG-DR funds and provides a breakdown of the funding available, awarded and disbursed.

NJ Sandy Transparency - this portal was created to provide public access to all state contracts for the allocation and expenditure of federal disaster relief funds, including contract vendor information. In addition, the portal lists the available federal funding streams and funding criteria and tracks the federal funding allotment of disaster relief funds in New Jersey.

Turning the Tides - a series of programs designed to help youth in grades K-12 recover from the after-effects of the hurricane.

Free legal clinics - those having a legal issue(s) arising out of Superstorm Sandy, are eligible to receive FREE legal counsel and advice and brief services from volunteer attorneys of Volunteer Lawyers for Justice at local clinics they have organized. Click here for details.

Youth Resources - The youth resources section includes information about 2nd Floor, a confidential and anonymous helpline for young adults between the ages of 10-24; resources for recreation, education and support; health programs to assist with well-visits or address such issues as eating disorders and stress; family planning options; New Jersey's Safe Haven program and more.

United Ways have been long-standing supporters and the national leader of the 2-1-1 movement in Partnership with AIRS (Alliance of Information and Referral Services). As the largest private funder of the 2-1-1 network, the United Ways of New Jersey, in partnership with the State of NJ continue to strengthen and support 2-1-1 as another way to build stronger communities in our state and to create opportunities for all.
